CURIOUS INN SIGNS.

One need not go to rural England for queerly named inns. In the Old Kent-road you will find "The World Turned Upside Down," while a street near Charing-cross Station possesses a tavern with the suggestive title of "The Final." Mr. Frederick W. Hackwood, in "The Inns, Ales and Drinking Customs of Old England," has a list of out-of-the-way inn signs—Here are a few: "Bleeding Heart," "Cat and Shoulder-of-Mutton," "Come Along," "Dog's Head in the Pot," "First and Last," "Hit and Miss," "Honest Lawyer," "Labour in Vain," "Now Then," "Old Pick my Toe," "Pass by," a cheerful place of entertainment this one imagines. "Slip in" and "Who's have Thought it." And the inn with the shortest sign in England in the "Q," which is to be found at Stolybridge. An inn on the road from Tarbes to Bagneres is inscribed "0 20 100 0," and this sign puzzles most strangers at first sight. When they pronounce the inscription, however, they find that the figures read exactly the same as the words "A u n n e s e u," and that the innkeeper has hit on an ingenious method of proclaiming the fact that his wine is not watered.

There is still a possibility of Peking being retained as the capital of China owing to the expense that would be involved by a transfer to Nanking. The National Convention, however, would be held at Tientsin.

The Hankow British Municipal Council must pay Hei Ichiro Aiko, a Japanese school teacher, $4,818.60 damages and $1,840.99 costs for the breaking of his arm by a member of the British police force. Judge P. S. A. Bourne, of the British Supreme Court at Shanghai, in his written judgment delivered at Hankow on 29th ult., decided that the police had used undue force in overcoming the plaintiff who, in the Judge's words, was "fighting drunk."—Shanghai Mercury.

FIGHTING AT ANKOW.

There are two Chang Yangs in China, the one in the Honan province and the other in Anhui. The scene of the recent fighting seems to be in the latter province. Several skirmishes took place and first one now the other party were victorious. It would appear from the telegram sent to the leaders of the revolution, that the Imperialist troops had the better of it, and that they strongly entrenched themselves, waiting for reinforcements. Ngai, the Imperialist leader, is said to be determined to defend the place even with his life, and only death will force him to forego his decision. The telegram points out that this place is very important, being in the centre of the kingdom, it is along the main route to the north, and therefore if the Imperialists are allowed to hold and entrench it strongly there will be danger to other parts of the empire. A strong appeal is made to the leaders of the Revolution to forward troops at once.

PRIESTS AND IDOLS.

Priests and idols are treated with scant civility in those times. It is reported that some robbers looted one of the temples on the White Cloud hills. The priests, seeing that there was little hope for them, decided to make hay whilst the sun shone. In other words they set about felling all the fine pine trees around their monastery, and selling the firewood preparatory to leaving the place. The consequence is that many of the poorer portions of the Canton community have been going up to the monastery and purchasing the firewood, which they get for about half the market price. They are delighted, and the priests, when they have made all they are able, are going to some other part of the country where they hope to be left in peace. Another so-called outrage was committed a few days ago on the idols on the Kuen Nam hill. Some visitors took hold of the idols and wringed their heads off, hanging them on the neighbouring trees. Those who were bent on mischief not only laughed at the threats of the priests, who said the idols would be revenged, but they added injury to insult by proceeding to rifle the money chests of the monastery. They carried off all the money to be found in the place.

MACAO NOTES.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

MACAO, February 9.
My last reference to the existing quietude in Macao and environs was purely relative to the Colony and its dependencies, for lawlessness in our neighbourhood is rife as ever. The gunboat Macao is due back to-day from a cruise round about Hongkong and Shikou. From the latter point reports reach us of a lively tussle. The chief of the constabulary there, Von Pio, whose able and resourceful tenure of the post dates from days of the bygone regime, is a frequent and welcome visitor at Macao.
Some time back a noted outlaw named Liang Saw made his headquarters in the aforesaid district despite repeated remonstrances and warnings. Eventually Yong Pio referred the case to Canton and this resulted in the detachment to the locality of a contingent, under the reformed ex-pirate king, Leong Yee Wa, who have, at writing, come to close quarters with the intruders.

For days past the detention of the Patriot at Sourabaya has given us food for talk and thought. Repairs, say some, quarantines say others. The real cause may possibly be elsewhere.

I have heard of unmerited strictures levelled at the Government for detaining to Timor the contingents recently in from Africa and India. Could a child say that of two evils the greater should be chosen?

A winning personality, Madame Angelica Maria Lopez dos Remedios, widow of the late Maximiano dos Remedios, passed away on Wednesday evening at the age of 69 years, after a protracted debility. A large and representative cortege followed the remains to San Miguel's next afternoon at 5.30 p.m. Widespread sympathy was testified by a wealth of floral tributes. The officiating clergyman, i.e. Canon Soares of the S. Lourenço parish, was assisted by Rev. Canon Arrago, of the Ca.edral, and Rev. Fr. Sita, of S. Antonio, Lieut. Roza for H.E. the Governor, Capt. Lima and Mendes (Art. Com.), Dr. Nolasco, M. Roa (Council for France) and General Rodriguez were the pall-bearers. Among the chief mourning were Messrs. Max. Julita and Julio Remedios (of Hongkong and Canton), J. F. Salles da Silva and E. X. A. da Silva (advocate) son-in-law.
